There are millions of people who realize they declared war. But it was already war. It has been a war of disinformation, stolen elections, and dictatorial decree for years, maybe generations. We were fighting them with our vote, or at least we thought we were. That is the civil path the constitution gave us to fight the previous war. Two months ago we learned they had changed the rules so that our constitutional path no longer worked.

Yesterday their actions opened a new Constitutional path for us. Yesterday, Congress changed the type of war, making it kinetic. That was a huge mistake on their part.

57 ▼ I made my wife turn off the stream. My ears were literally burning I was getting so pissed at their shithead remarks about democracy. What the fuck does anyone in that chamber know about democracy???

At any rate, I'm a little older and wiser now and know that emotional rage is not the best way to think through a 'fog of war' situation. I thought it best to turn that off and take a mental breather. Then Lin Wood posted that shit real late and I smiled and nodded off to bed.

All patriots need to keep their sense about them and understand the complete 95% bullshit information around them and the DS main goal right now is to demoralize anyone that they fear may be a patriot. The reason the Trump team still has a hand full of 'Rah Rah' people out there is to drop nuggets and keep morale up during the time of Abeyance. If all else fails after this is said and done, I think all true patriots know what to do.

11 ▼ I had to unplug for a couple of hours last evening and 'relax' and think clearer to see that there is a massive 'fog of war' right now from all sides. The true aspects start to show themselves if you have a clear mind. If the whitehat military stay with Trump, he will pull it out. If they turn on him... that would be my only concern. Seems like Flynn is right by his side so I can only assume that the rest of the whitehats are as well.

Do you think President Trump will enact his EO for this treason?

Just remember, unless we have been duped by both sides and Trump was going to flip on us the entire time, the side that is making the most noise, likely has the disadvantage.

The quiet, methodical, side is likely doing big things that have actual impact behind the scenes. The main disadvantage of the non-deep-state is that they control almost all aspects of news and media. This can cause portions of the populations to act irrationally because they are completely 'all in' on false information. I could go on but:

It's either already in the works (and Pence's CoS being denied entry to the White House yesterday afternoon let me know the 25th hadn't been secretly enacted and Trump is still the sitting president) and Flynn is still apparently on Trump's side, or we have been had and always were going to be had.

If he is going to enact it - it has already been done and that's why the quiet behind the scenes.

There was never a need to publicly announce the EO, it was self-enacting (per it's verbiage) when DNI stated there was verified foreign election interference a few weeks back.

They murdered an unarmed protester in the goddamn Speaker's Lobby of all places. There is no place more symbolic of our republican form of government and the freedoms enshrined in the first amendment. There was an accusation of the most serious of frauds (whether or not it had actually occurred has absolutely nothing to do with the peoples' right to petition for redress) and instead of meeting with their constituents to hear the evidence and resolve our grievances, they issued an order to shoot us on sight in order to prevent their coup from being interrupted. This was no trivial abuse of power, especially considering where it happened. They think of themselves not as servants to the public, but as masters whose authority (and integrity) must never be questioned. Yesterday the sacred covenant was broken and the relationship between the people and their government was irrevocably severed. America died with Ashli Babbitt. Cause of death? COVID-19. (Just kidding, it was democide.)

I sense that but it's bc of how the event is being reported. What's to believe anymore? I was there! People praying down the street, ppl singing the national anthem on the capitol balcony...not one weapon was seen. The most violent thing patriots did was enter the house floor. And that was to make a point that this house belongs to the people & we will not be ignored.

Even those breaking glass were taken down by patriots physically to prevent them from destroying our capitol building.

MSM is lying yet again.

This shit's been going on for decades but I'm glad you're now paying attention.

Ruby Ridge ring a bell?

Did you think the commies of today are different commies than the ones McCarthy was fighting?

We're in a century old struggle and we're losing... badly. Yesterday was a big day but it was just a day.

The faster (some of) you guys realize that we're in an evil world where evil people usually win the better off you'll be. That doesn't mean you don't fight it.

regardless of what happens to Trump and the other, not by a long shot.

Trump gave us the blue print. It was the greatest thing he did. He taught the right how to win.

I will be forever grateful to that man. I have so much faith in the guy that I'm still expecting him to pull something off at the last minute.

But if it doesn't happen that's fine.

There's only one man that should get all of our faith and that's Jesus.

Jesus gave us the blue print to be as good as possible. The Founding Fathers gave us the blue print for a free country. Trump gave us the blue print on how to win our country back politically.

Won't CNN be upset when 100 mini-Trump's start running for office?

I'm very excited about the future.

▼ while I agree with the majority of what you said.... there will never be another legitimate election in America. What has occurred in November and just the other in Georgia will be the standard for all future elections. But don't worry, they'll give you platitudes of how they "fixed" all the problems, and they're figure out the kinks so they don't have to be so obvious and shut counting each night to rig it all so you won't notice as much... but it will never be legitimate. A patriot will never be elected again to president.

▼ "A patriot will never be elected again to president"

I believe that every problem on this planet has a solution. Well, maybe not the whole getting old and dying problem... but that's fine. God forbid if we ever become immortalish. Can you imagine a 60 year reign of Nancy Pelosi in Congress?

You're wrong though. The desire to be free can't be killed or politicked out of existence. Things are going to get weird and uncomfortable, probably for a long long time. So fucking what.

Even in places like Iraq where brutal dictators like Saddam ruled there were still places that he was afraid to go to. He had body doubles for reason.

The Soviet Union fell. East Germany fell. The Roman Empire fell.

Hard times create strong men. We're in that part of the cycle. That's glorious.
